

Writing Guide

Write your name, class and school, clearly at the top of your writing sheet.

1. Title of Your Story:

Give your story a title. It should be something that catches the reader's attention and gives a hint about what your story is about.

My Title: Give your story a captivating title.

2. Introduction:

Introduce your main character and setting. Where does your story take place? Who is the main character?

Example: "Once upon a time, in a small village near the forest, lived a curious child named Amina. She loved exploring nature and learning about the environment."

3. The Problem:

Every story needs a problem to solve. What climate change issue does your main character encounter? It could be something like pollution, deforestation, or extreme weather.

Example: "Amina noticed that the river near her village was drying up and the animals were getting thirsty. She decided to find out why this was happening."

4. The Adventure:

Describe how your main character tries to solve the problem. Do they meet anyone who helps them? What challenges do they face?

Example: "Amina talked to the wise old owl, who told her that the trees were being cut down, causing the river to dry up. She then gathered her friends to plant new trees and stop the deforestation."

5. The Solution:

How does your main character solve the problem? What actions do they take, and what is the outcome?

Example: "With everyone's help, Amina was able to plant many trees and the river started flowing again. The animals returned, and the village became green and lively once more."

6. Conclusion:

How does your story end? What lesson does your main character learn? What message do you want to give your readers about climate change?

Example: "Amina learned that taking care of the environment is everyone's responsibility. She promised to always protect nature and teach others about the importance of trees."

7.. Illustrate Your Story:

Draw a picture of your favourite scene from your story. This could be your main character in action, the problem they face, or the solution they find.

Congratulations! You've written a wonderful story about climate change. Remember, your words can inspire others to make a difference. Keep writing and sharing your ideas of what is important to you!
